In March, 2019, during Brain Injury Awareness Month, Penn Medicine will be hosting Mind Your Brain @ Penn Medicine, a conference for brain injury survivors, families, caregivers, and interested parties to connect to resources and information that can help on the journey to recovery. This dynamic program will include presentations, interactive discussions and resource sharing by a variety of authorities.

This includes Penn Medicine's experts on neuroscience and brain injury, former professional athletes, physical, occupational, and speech therapists, and brain injury survivors. This program will focus on sharing research, insights, and therapies designed to address the personal and medical issues of those impacted by brain injury. We are proud to offer this program, free of cost, to brain injury survivors, families, and caregivers.

Good Shepherd Penn Partners will be at the event with several of our clinicians to share information about physical, occupational and speech therapy resources.
